Bert is a nice horse.
But Bert does not like bugs.
Bert's main problem is that bugs like Bert.

On hot days, bugs visit Bert's barn.
Bugs get on Bert's back.
Bert yells, "Scram!"
but the bugs stay.

Bert swishes his tail.
Those bugs think Bert
wants to play with them.
That will not make them go away.

Bert is getting upset.
He uses his brain
to come up with a plan.

Bert fills a big pail.
He raises it up.
Then Bert waits for the bugs.

Bert raises his tail.
He swings it hard at the pail.
Splash! Bert got a nice bath,
and those bugs got wet.

Now the bugs stay away.
That's how Bert likes it.
